Transition Week

We have excellent transition arrangements at St Michaels and recognise that ultimately, children have had ten months in their current class so ensuring they feel comfortable about their next class is very important. For children in our current Reception to Year 5 classes, transition week will be the final week of term, so their last day with their current teacher will be Friday 12th July.

We believe transition is very important to alleviate any worries or concerns your child might have before the summer holidays about moving up into their new class. Some children may have already started their transition with small changes such as using a different toilet. Over the next few weeks, some children may start other little transitional activities to support their transition prior to Transition Week.

If you have any questions or would like to discuss anything further, please do not hesitate to get in touch.

Yours faithfully

Mrs Berry
